

YURTS of UTAH

YURT 27 OVID YURT

Location: Northern Idaho about 45 minutes north of Bear Lake; Ovid, Idaho

Length: Summer—You can drive to the yurt; Winter—4.5 miles from parking to yurt

Elevation: 6770'

Size: Sleeps 6 comfortably; 3 bunk beds; Will allow 8. There are two sleeping pads that can be rolled out on the floor.

Amenities: Wood burning stove with wood; 3 burner propane Camp Chef stove; lantern and 5 LED lights connected to battery and solar panel; outhouse; cooking and eating utensils, pots and pans, ax, large group table, outdoor fire-pit, tubs for cleaning dishes, big pots for melting snow.

Introduction: Ovid yurt is available for summer as well as winter enjoyment. Surrounded by quaking aspen and sage, it sits among plots of private land about 1.5 miles from the Forest Service boundary. The yurt appears small, but comfortably fits six people with a huge group table and spacious beds. The yurt is in good condition and there is a shed with wood, and an outhouse—complete with the moon carved in the side, and an outdoor fire-pit for s'mores, singing and watching the stars—so you've got all your needs taken care of. Summer activities include enjoying Bear Lake, running the Bear River—a popular tubing stretch begins at the Oneida Narrows—and two different options for hot springs. During the winter you can ski, snowshoe, or snowmobile in the area. Within 0.5 mile of the yurt there is a mellow east facing slope with 800 ft. of elevation drop. When making reservations for the yurt the owner will provide you with more information on these recreational options.

Season: May – September; Winter: December – March

Reservations: reddooryurts@gmail.com or www.redooryurts.com

Fee: $75 a night.

Other: Dogs are allowed. Verizon has great cell phone reception in the area, other providers have no signal or less signal. This may change with time.