YURT 29 SOLDIER SUMMIT YURT

Location: Spanish Fork Canyon. Near Scofield State Park.
1 hour from Provo, Utah.

Length: ~1.6 miles one way.

Elevation: Trailhead: 7,519' Yurt: 8,443'

Size: 20ft diameter. Sleeps 8 adults comfortably.

Amenities: This is a brand new yurt (2017). Double bunk beds with 3-inch sleeping pads are provided. No linens, bedding or pillows are provided. Double-burner propane camp stove for cooking, two folding tables, and soft folding chairs. Food prep counter space, kitchenware (an assortment of pots, pans, dishes, and utensils), and a designated large snow melting pot for water. Wood burning stove, heat activated stove fan to heat up the yurt faster, and a stove top thermometer to help guests keep the stove burning at the ideal burn temperature. An enclosed woodshed stocked with split firewood (hardwood, which burns hotter and longer) that is dry! An outdoor pit toilet. A solar powered lighting system, which provides excellent lighting. An assortment of board games and many decks of playing cards are provided.

Introduction: Soldier Summit Yurt is remote and high up in the mountains, yet only a short drive away. The yurt sits tucked away in a grove of aspen, pine, and junipers. There is lot of area to explore around the yurt with several promising slopes to enjoy some backcountry powder in the winter. The trail to the yurt is long enough to enjoy the outdoors and appreciate your stay in a cozy yurt, but short enough to enable all skill levels to join in the fun. This is a very well stocked yurt, and it is evident that the owners pay attention to the small details.

Season: The yurt is open for reservations year round. It is located a short distance up the road from Scofield Reservoir and there are many enjoyable hiking trails in the surrounding areas. In the winter, it is very popular to snowshoe or ski in to the yurt. Snowmobiling into the yurt is allowed with advance notice and permission.
